Merlot

Appellation

The grapes that make up this wine comes from Miraflores and Los Lingues Estates, both located in Andes foothills in the Colchagua Valley. Hardly known a decade ago, Colchagua is now becoming one of the most celebrated regions in Chile. The combination of deep rocky soils and a warm, dry climate cooled by mountain breezes make it ideal for producing a ripe and mature Merlot.

Winemaking

- Hand-harvested grapes.
- Cold maceration.
- Traditional fermentation at controlled temperatures (28° C / 82° F) in cement tanks.
- 10% gets post-fermentation maceration.
- 40 % gets malolactic fermentation in French oak barrels.
- The blend has 8 months of french oak barrel ageing and it is bottled one year later.
